

2024 QUALITY OVERVIEW

FOR NEXUS NEURORECOVERY CENTER - SAN ANTONIO

A safe, structured environment for adolescent females with psychiatric needs

At Nexus Neurorecovery Center — San Antonio, teen girls find stability and support as they work through the impacts of trauma and mental health challenges. Located in the heart of the city, our secure behavioral unit is dedicated entirely to the True North Program, allowing female residents to make psychiatric, behavioral, and medical progress in a safe, single-gender environment.

With trauma-informed therapeutic programming, evidence-based behavioral care, around-the-clock medical oversight, and concurrent, TEA-accredited education, we help residents feel secure enough to engage in the real work of healing — processing the past, developing healthy coping skills and gaining the tools they need to succeed in their communities. Every step of the treatment process is guided by our commitment to mending minds.

Medical-model residential treatment for adolescent females with complex behavioral and medical challenges

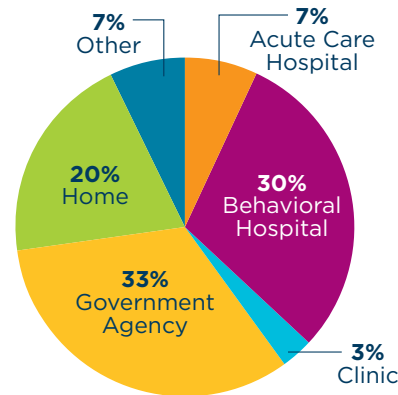

Many young women struggling with the effects of trauma need more than outpatient support — they need a complete reorientation of their approach to themselves and the world. The True North Program offers trauma-informed, medical-model treatment designed to address every aspect of residents’ needs — including psychiatric, behavioral, and in some cases, medical conditions. We offer a safe, secure environment in which female teens can begin to heal and develop essential life skills that will serve them for years to come. Our goal is to not only treat the symptoms, but also address the causes of psychiatric and behavioral challenges so teens can learn to successfully navigate life and reach their personal summits.
